Subject: Re: Equestrian Life (Louise Graham) - Stop-it-All SAMPLES - for Winter Issues - Tried/Tested Update

Hi, I have included the pictures of my spotty horse and your products in the October issue. It certainly did seem to help. It was over a fairly large area of his skin so an easy-to-apply spread type thing would be great. Kind regards, Louise

For your Winter issues (mud- [redacted], [redacted]), open sores, hair loss & even late flies) do you have enough product to test it for any impending articles or would you like some more?

With a Mud- [redacted] success rate during our Trial of well over 90%, and in conjunction with it being 100% Natural, might it be of interest to your readers? And as an added bonus, with it's amazing success rate for deterring flies and for [redacted], many owners claim it's a genuine 'all year round' essential bottle for their medicine cabinet. I've tried everything for my mare's [redacted] and now I have a healthy scepticism for products that appear to offer a 'miracle cure!' But since I've tried Stop-It-All, I CANNOT BELIEVE IT? I am truly shocked. She's STOPPED scratching in just 4 days, & best of all my horses can still mutually groom each other as it's non-chemical. Now when I go to see her I am greeted with a nuzzle & kiss instead of a rubbed-raw bottom for yet more scratching?

Sam Mignano. Natural Horse People. www.naturalhorsepeople.com. Severe sweet itch "REMARKABLE" doesn't do this product justice. My whole yard (c 20 of us) now use it for any/everything from mud [redacted] [redacted] midges, [redacted] itch, open wounds, [redacted] etc., We've yet to find anything that it doesn't work on! And you should see the flies back away from any area where it's applied. How can one product do so much good?!? Mrs LC, Avon.
