Hi Karen

Do hope you are able to help Andrea with her cat as she has had every treatment going from the vets and still overgrooms herself.

As I work with most of the vets in this area with the Ambulance I often see a pet that is not responding to the vets treatment but I don't like to tread on their toes and suggest RI until the vet has drawn a blank and still no cure.

I always have a bottle mixed up ready in the Ambulance and just suggest they borrow it for a few days to see how it might help. It always does!!!

I have used Ruggle It on two cats lately that the vets have been struggling to [REDACTED] [help] and both are now fine. One (my daughters who works for a vet) had harvest mites in his feet and the vet wanted to put him on [REDACTED] [strong drugs]. Ruggle It did the trick and he is now so much better in himself he has almost doubled in size, not fat but just grown into a big healthy cat.

The other belonging to a customer has been treated for about two months for a skin [redacted] [nasty skin irritation] under her collar. I have been looking after her for the last week and the vet had just prescribed [redacted] [strong drugs] for her. She hated the tablets so much we couldn't get her to take them at all so I have bathed her neck in the solution for 1 week and the owners were amazed how it had healed itself in just one week, they knew the product worked already as I had given them some mixed up for their dog a Vizla that appeared to have a grass [redacted] [sensitivity] all over his face. That also got better without vet treatment in less than a week

I have now introduced my daughter to Bio Kult as she has suffered a lot recently with unexplained stomach problems and has to watch what she eats. She has just finished the "loading" phase [we usually suggest "loading" for 7-10 days] and already she feels so much better and her skin is healing so much quicker. I would like to know if it would be safe for my other daughter to take as she is 2 months pregnant and very run down with bad sickness each day [we answered this question a categoric YES!]

Many Thanks

Linda Moore
